Sandy Hershelman is our long-time webmaster, or, as she prefers, webmistress. Archives of past issues and contents of our current issues are always available at the website. Sandy's work has always been done "off site," but she lives locally and keeps us grounded in the Pacific Northwest.

Affinity Collin, my daughter, is working on advertising and marketing while residing in Portland, Oregon. Both she and her brother, Samuel Collin, have shared in developing the spirit of the Townsend Letter family. Last and certainly not least, let me thank my wife, Deborah Nissen-Collin, who has enabled me to nurture the magazine since its inception. Since Port Townsend is not close to our home, I spend 2 to 3 days per week away. Deborah says that I have the best of both worlds, spending time each week both in Port Townsend and Kirkland, Washington.

Jonathan Collin, MD

Barbara Smith

Lauren Brown and her son Jacob

Jule Klotter

Joy Reuther-Costa

Deborah Nissen-Collin

Julie Reuther

Sandy Hershelman

Affinity Collin-Wellington and Samuel Collin

Jill Tomasi (and Butch)